THE SIGNAL YOU MISSED.

Every day, hundreds of people in your exact target market are commenting on LinkedIn posts about the problems your product solves. They are engaging, sharing opinions, and signalling genuine interest in public. That is not a cold audience. That is a warm list that nobody thought to collect.

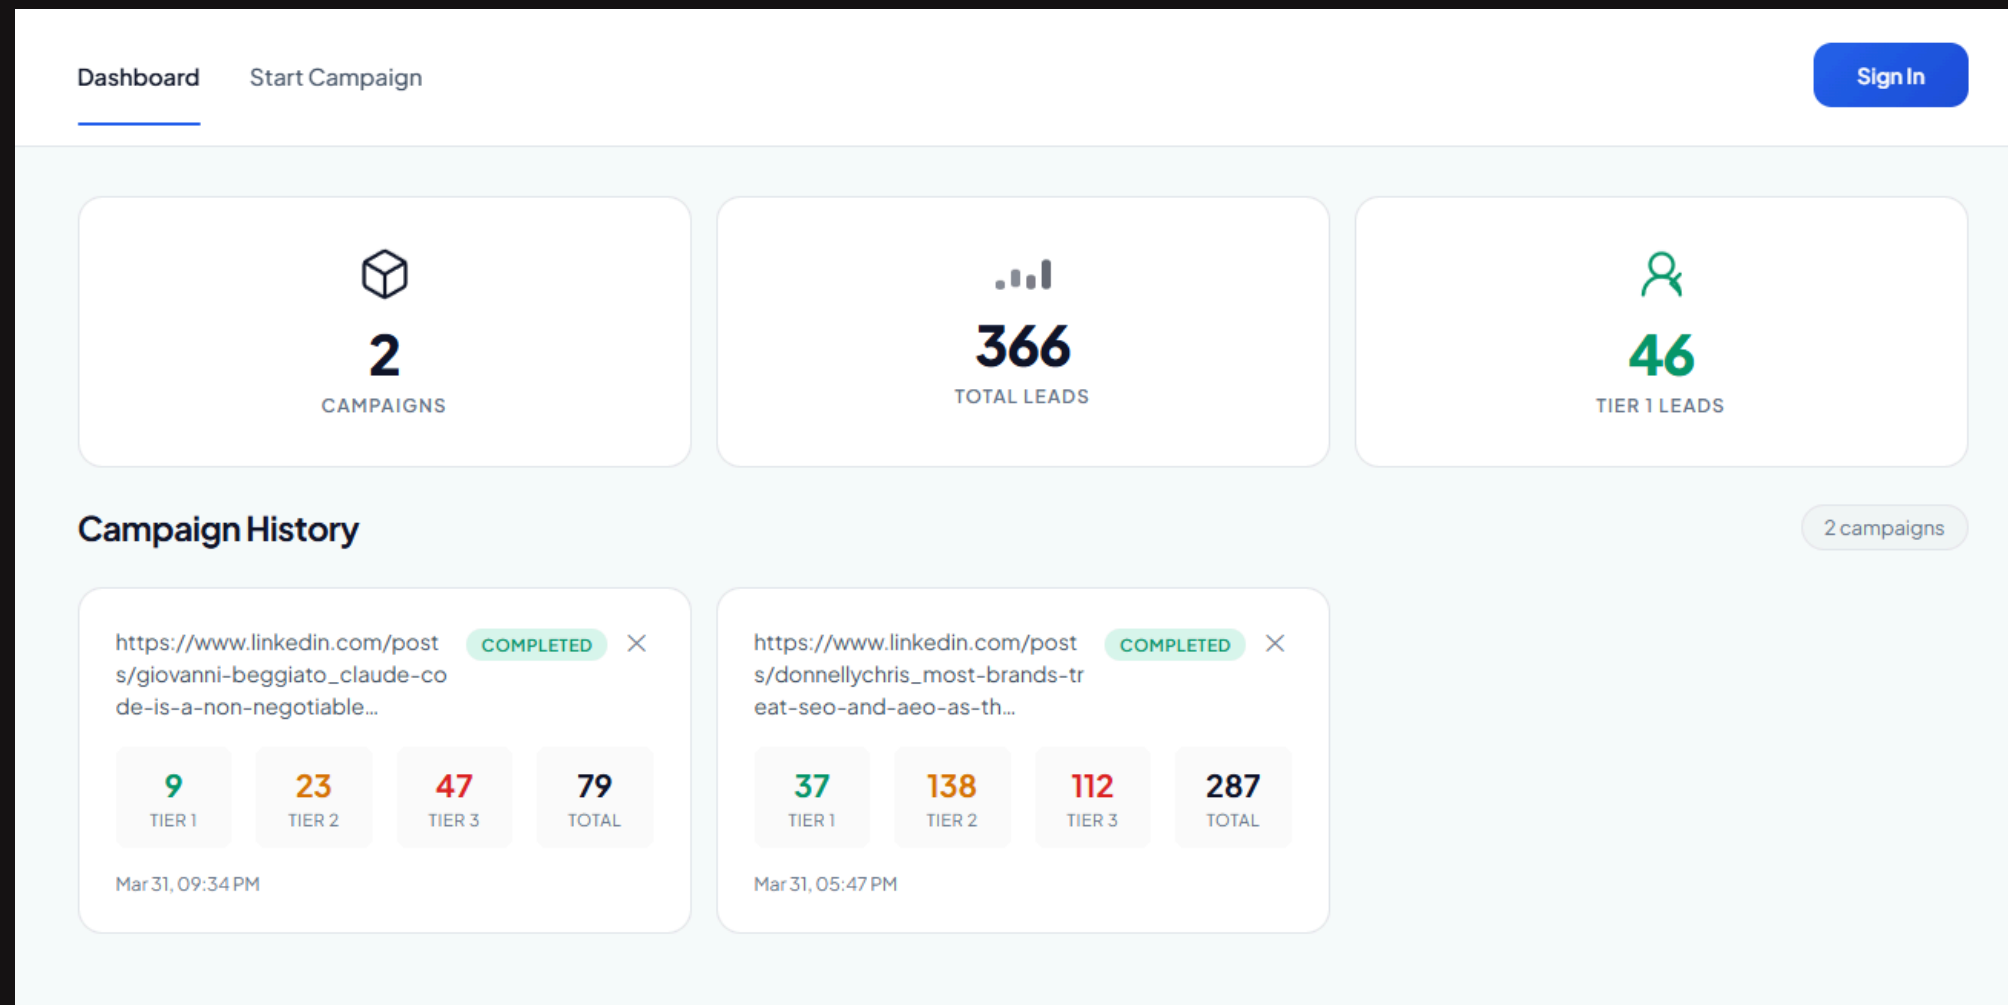

The signal was always there.

It just needed someone to listen.

THE SIGNAL WAS ALWAYS THERE. IT JUST NEEDED SOMEONE TO LISTEN.

HOW IT THINKS.

The system is built around one core idea. Public data is underutilised. LinkedIn comment sections are openly accessible, intent-rich, and completely ignored by every major outreach tool. This project exploits that gap.

A scraping layer pulls every commenter from any given post. A scoring layer filters them against a configurable ideal customer profile. A delivery layer presents the output in a clean, real-time dashboard.

Three layers.

One URL.

Done.

UNDER THE HOOD.

Paste any LinkedIn post URL from your niche and the system takes it from there. Every single person who commented is automatically extracted along with their full profile data. Each profile is then scored against your ideal customer profile by job title and location, filtering out the noise and surfacing only the people who actually fit. By the time you open the dashboard, your Tier 1 leads are already ranked and ready to contact.

The screenshot displays a 'Campaign Results' dashboard with a 'COMPLETED' status. It features four summary cards for lead counts: Total Leads (287), Tier 1 (37), Tier 2 (138), and Tier 3 (112). Below these is a table of lead profiles with columns for LEAD, COMMENT, SCORE, TIER, and PROFILE. The table lists ten individuals, each with a brief bio, a comment snippet, a score, a tier, and an 'Open' button. The leads are ranked by score, with the highest score being +9.
